

What I Learned Today

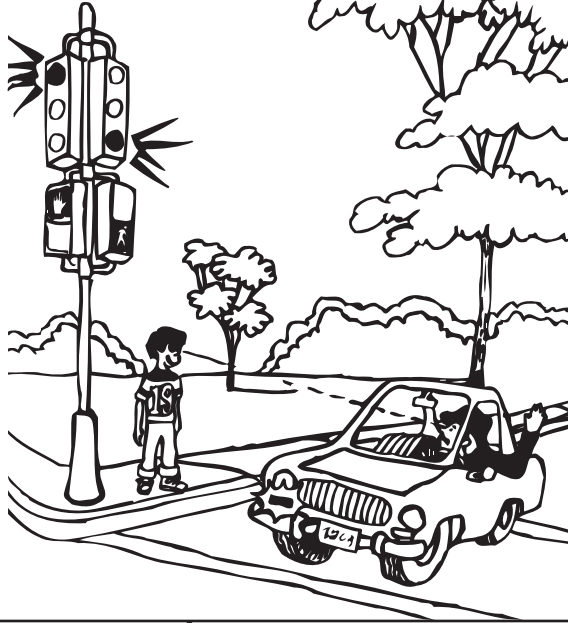

In school, we learned to cross streets. Please help me practice what I learned when we walk together. NAME _____

 I learned to stop at the curb.	 I then look up the street...	 down the street...	 ahead of me...	 and behind me.
 When no cars are coming. I WALK across the street.	 When a parked car blocks my view... I look all ways, then if safe...	 I walk to the edge of the parked car and look all ways again.	The traffic light helps us take turns crossing the street. <table border="0"><tbody><tr><td></td><td>Red means Stop.</td></tr><tr><td></td><td>Yellow means Change.</td></tr><tr><td></td><td>Green means Go.</td></tr><tr><td></td><td>Don't Walk means Don't Start.</td></tr><tr><td></td><td>Walk means Start.</td></tr></tbody></table>			Red means Stop.		Yellow means Change.		Green means Go.		Don't Walk means Don't Start.		Walk means Start.
	Red means Stop.
	Yellow means Change.
	Green means Go.
	Don't Walk means Don't Start.
	Walk means Start.

There are many traffic lights on a corner. I look at the one right across the street from me on the street I want to cross.

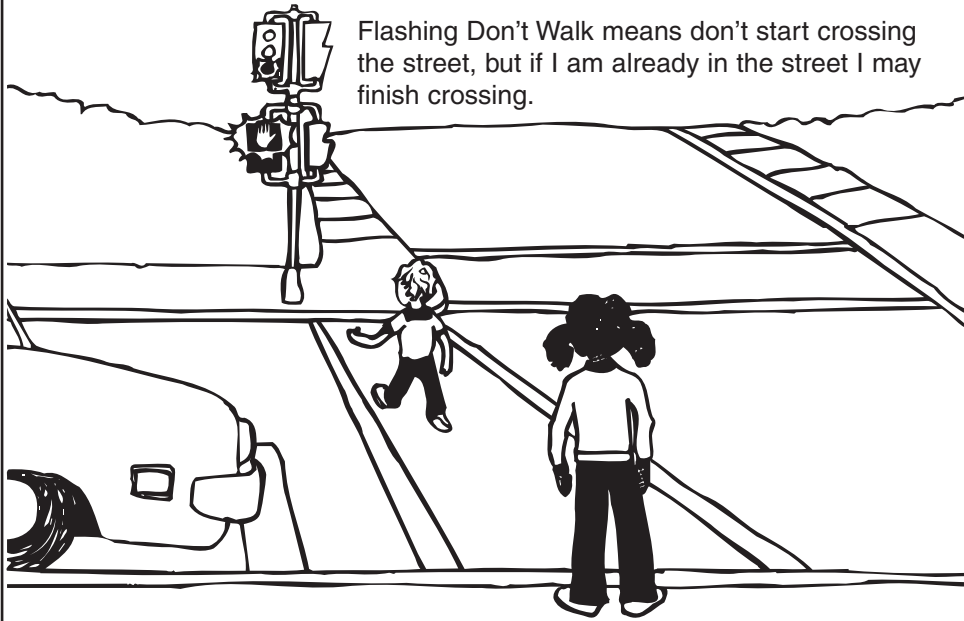

Walk means Start — But First I...
Make sure drivers are stopping for the red light, check for turning cars, check for drivers turning right on a red light, make sure they see me...

Then I walk across, but I keep looking as I cross.

Flashing Don't Walk means don't start crossing the street, but if I am already in the street I may finish crossing.

Steady Don't Walk means I should be out of the street. It is not my turn to cross anymore. To cross, I wait for a Walk sign.
